◀DEDICATION.▶

—:O:—

TO MY UNKNOWN HELPER, WITHOUT WHOSE UNTIRING
AND SELF-SACRIFICING ASSISTANCE THIS LABOR OF YEARS
MIGHT NEVER HAVE BEEN PUBLISHED, THIS VOLUME IS MOST AFFECTIONATELY DEDICATED.

PREFACE.

—:O:—

VERY few words are needed in introducing this work to the public, as the title page and the contents fully indicate its character. It is the result of a faithful and laborious effort to supply a long-existing want, by presenting in one volume, but in a satisfactory and intelligible manner, summaries of all races trotted or paced in the United States or Canada from the earliest dates until the close of 1883. The difference in the form of printing the summaries from the old tabular methods is apparent rather than actual. The paragraph style was adopted of necessity, to bring the work within reasonable bounds, and the innovation is certain to be approved by students of such matters when they become accustomed to it. The recital goes on naturally down the pages; the victories of each horse, arranged alphabetically and indexing themselves, are grouped in chronological order; and the system of the Index of Beaten Horses with relation to the Winners is such that there can be no confusion of identity. All who have the book are admonished to read the explanations carefully, and they will soon find no difficulty in using it to full advantage.

The compiler wishes it to be fully understood that, while pedigrees of performers are given where known, and are correct to the best of his knowledge and belief, this volume is not to be considered as a stud-book, in any true sense of the term. It is, as it purports to be, simply a record of performances, as comprehensive and as accurate as can be made before being submitted to the crucial test of individual inspection. Absolute correctness is impossible in a work of this magnitude, in which the data are so confused, deficient, and frequently unreliable. There are errors and omissions, doubtless, but they are such as have escaped the utmost vigilance and care, supported by unusual advantages for the preparation of such a work. Individual knowledge of horses will bring such faults to light, and information of their existence will be thankfully received by the compiler. Critics are advised, however, that the records in this work have been compared, whenever possible, with official or original reports, and have been pruned of the errors which spring from transmission into newspapers or occur from other causes. In the 2:30 list, for instance, many are taken from it that were previously supposed to belong there, and a number of new ones are added; besides which long unchallenged fast records are altered by the scores; but in every one of these cases this work gives the exact facts.

Annual books, recording the performances of each year, will follow this volume, and these will be compiled in such a thorough manner as to be worthy of the vast interest of which they will be the index. This volume is placed before the public, with due modesty, as the best that can be done for the history of the past: in the future, with facts fresh and accessible, nothing will be left to be desired in this specialty of statistical work.

Chester's Complete Trotting and Pacing Record.

EXPLANATION.

The names of the horses in black type, arranged in alphabetical order, are those of the winners of the races, and under each horse's name the races won by him appear in chronological order. All races are trotting, mile heats, best three in five, in harness, unless the contrary is shown by the time, stated at the conclusion of the summary, or a different way of going indicated by proper signs. After the name of the winner appears his description, as "b s" for bay stallion, "brg" for brown gelding, "gr m" for gray mare, etc. The following figures, in heavy type and in parenthesis, show the best record of the horse to the close of the year 1883. Then follow the pedigree of the winner, when known; the name of nominator, place and date of race, amount of money trotted for, and the names of the horses beaten, in the order of their standing at the close of the race, and last comes the time of the heats. The ordinary signs are used to denote the incidents and casualties of the race. Thus, the character "o" in connection with a number in a bracket indicates that the horse whose name that sign follows made a dead heat in accordance with the number, viz., (3 o) signifies third heat dead. The abbreviation "dr" signifies drawn; "dis," distanced; "r o," ruled out; "w o," walk over, etc. Figures following the name of a beaten horse show that he won the heat or heats corresponding with the number. When the letter "w" follows the name of a horse, it signifies that he went to wagon, and the letter "s" that he went to saddle. In cases where a horse has a record to harness or wagon, and a faster one to saddle, both are given. When an asterisk (*) is attached to the figures usually denoting a record, it signifies that the time, being over a short track, is a bar and not a record. The summaries preceded by dashes (—) are subsequent victories of the horse whose description and record have been given, and in these, if the name of nominator or of place of trotting, or of both of these, are not given, it signifies that they are identical with those of the race immediately preceding. It sometimes happens that a horse winning as a stallion wins later as a gelding, in which cases the castration is shown by the change in the description, but there being no renewal of the name, it will be understood that it is the same horse under changed conditions. In order to keep them of record, losing performances against time are given under the name of the losing horse, as a part of his history, and the fact that he lost is mentioned in the summary. See index of beaten horses for further explanation.
